specimen of the many gross acts committed in a mere spirit of insult and petty tyranny. We asked for the privilege of submitting to the vote of our people an extension of our taxable boundaries; a change in the manner of collecting taxes, calculated to save expenses to the city and also to prompt Inx-payers; an inerease in the Mayor's salary; and other measures of mere municipal concern, which passed ate a substitute for the whole was proposed to divide the First and Eighth Words, and thus ly rejected. We wanted too a specific and most beneficial system of taxation by districts for sewerage, which, if granted when applied pavers, but this too was met with every conimpair its utility or defeat it.
